

Skyline IFE acquires Cannes award-winning 'Alice and the Mayor' for airlines.

Skyline IFE is delighted to announce their recent acquisition of the award-winning movie 'Alice and the Mayor' which will be available for in-flight entertainment from January 2020.

Richard Barsby, managing director of Skyline IFE, explains the background to their acquisition and why having 'Alice and The Mayor' onboard will mean airline passengers are in for a treat.

"We were first introduced to the script for "Alice and the Mayor" in January 2019 and having heard the different and fascinating storyline we were looking forward to viewing the release screening in Cannes. This surpassed our expectations so we were very pleased to be able to negotiate purchase."

'Alice and the Mayor' tells a story of growing self-doubt and highlights how even successful people can still benefit from reassurance, support and a positive sense of direction. Whether or not such support should be sought from a young philosopher is left up to you to decide. The gentle flow and dialogue provides a relaxing viewing experience where we are all reminded of our vulnerabilities in a way that we can relate to. "Alice and the Mayor" is an inspiring journey which can't fail to also inspire airline passengers on their journey.
